Performance Excellence ratings start with the following principles:

- The vast majority of Northwestern staff want to be here and make meaningful contributions. Every staff member has room to improve, and benefits from knowing where they stand.

- Ratings are based on annual performance. No one should be entitled to a high rating or doomed to a low rating based on prior years’ performance.

- Ratings should be a summary of feedback throughout the year. Supervisors and staff communicating frequently should have a shared understanding of ongoing performance and development. The year-end process should hold no surprises.

- New hires or staff members new to their role should be rated against their expected progress in learning the role, not against being fully capable in the role.

- Ratings should accurately reflect a staff member’s contribution. They should not be used as a punishment, a way to avoid conflict, or as a substitute for other rewards.

- Expectations should increase every year. Doing the same things the same way without focusing on continuously improving should not merit the same rating year after year. This is true even for staff whose core responsibilities remain largely the same year-to-year.
Few staff (5%) are Role Models. This rating is reserved for those few staff who made a profound impact this year.

- Consistently went way beyond core job responsibilities.
- Exceeded all expectations and goals, making a profound impact on school/unit and University beyond what was planned.
- Demonstrated Northwestern Values in an exemplary way and modeled the values for others.
- Ready for expanded or new responsibilities.
- Not recommended for new hires or new to role.

Some staff (25-30%) are Excelling and made a significant impact this year.

- Went above and beyond core job responsibilities.
- Exceeded expectations and goals, making a significant impact on school/unit beyond what was planned.
- Demonstrated Northwestern Values in an exemplary way.
- May be ready for new or expanded responsibilities.
- For new hires or new to role: progressed significantly faster than expected.

Many staff (55-65%) are Achieving and made a solid impact this year.

- Fulfilled core job responsibilities.
- Achieved goals, making a solid impact on school/unit.
- Demonstrated Northwestern Values consistently.
- Showed personal growth.
- For new hires or new to role: progressed as expected.

Few staff (5-10%) made a limited impact this year, and there is Development Needed in one or more areas under review. This rating is appropriate when one or more of the following statements apply:

- Did not consistently fulfill core job responsibilities.
- Did not consistently meet expectations and goals.
- Did not consistently demonstrate Northwestern Values.
- Did not show much personal growth.
- For new hires or new to role: progressed slower than expected.

Very few staff are in a formal Corrective Action process.

- Failed to improve despite ongoing efforts to address performance issues.
